Painesville FOP Donates Money to Local Charity

The Painesville Fraternal Order of Police made a $150 donation to the Family Life Education Center Tutoring Program (FLEC) along with a personal donation from the Chief of Police, Troy Hager.

FLEC works with students in the sixth grade who did not pass their Ohio Achievement Test by less than 10 points – the program is a safety net for those students who are on the line of passing and failing the test. Six tutors from the community offer individualized tutoring for each student once a week at Heritage Middle School.

“We are very appreciative of the donation. It will enable us to purchase workbooks for the students in our program and to use these books year after year,” says Lillie Wilson, FLEC program coordinator.

The tutoring program is run in partnership with Painesville City Schools, St. John Baptist Church and with monetary support from the United Way of Lake County. “We are very pleased to have this program in place,” says Michael Hanlon, superintendent of Painesville City Schools.
