Roberta attempted unsuccessfully to end her abusive Relationship for many years, but had no outside support system. She reached a turning point and sought shelter at Forbes House, the domestic abuse shelter. Once there, she gained the strength to end her abusive relationship. Eventually, Roberta found an apartment and entered the life transition program. Through this program she received rental assistance, financial counseling and emotional support services. Roberta is now confident in her ability to take care of herself and maintain a safe lifestyle.
